Workers' Compensation 101 will be a brief overview of what every practitioner should know about workers' compensation for themselves and their clients. It is designed to give practitioners who do not work in the area enough information to spot workers' compensation issues and recognize when a specialist needs to be contacted.

If you represent companies or individuals, workers' compensation may affect your clients either because they are employees or employers. Come learn the basics in a simple overview of workers' compensation law in Arizona.

FACULTY

HON. ERIC SLAVIN graduated from the University of Arizona College of Law in 1996, and was admitted to practice law in Arizona that same year. He has been admitted to practice before the U.S. District Court for Arizona since 1998. Judge Slavin has mainly worked in the private sector on Arizona workers' compensation claims for both employers and workers, with a litigation and appellate practice. He took the bench in 2004 as an administrative law judge with the Industrial Commission of Arizona, adjudicating Arizona workers' compensation and OSHA claims. He has served on the State Bar of Arizona CLE Committee, co-chaired the 2003 Annual Worker's Compensation Seminar for the SBA, and is co-chairing a seminar at the 2005 annual convention on improving the system.
